Improvements Sought In Local P.O. Quarters

The Jefferson Business Men's Club, which entertained at a dinner meeting at the Jen-Wall Poultry Farm Tuesday evening, decided to meet in the future at the noon hour. The business men also decided to meet semi-monthly in the future, instead of monthly. The next meeting will be held June 13, and thereafter on every first and third Tuesday.

It is revealed in recent correspondence between J. W. Cooper, secretary of the local business group, Senator John S. Cooper, Representative Thurston Morton, and Postoffice Director, that officials of Jeffersonton is in a race to have a new postoffice building.

Willis, as secretary of the Club, had also written the President, relative to the desire in the proposed to have a modern postoffice quarters in Jeffersonton.

In September, 1945, the office of Commissioner of Public Buildings announced that the Post Office Department had a proposed list of eligible public works projects. In a letter addressed to Senator Cooper, dated April 30, 1946, Commissioner of Post Office states that Jeffersonton is included in the list of eligibles. The acquisition of a site and the erection of a building under a limit of $95,000 is contemplated.

Acting Commissioner H. G. Hunter assured Senator Cooper that "when funds are appropriated for Federal buildings and construction," consideration will be given to the local project, "based upon its relative urgency to other projects in the State." Congressmen of the future will be asked to provide a site for the new postoffice.

Representative Morton, who is on the Postoffice and Civil Service Committee in the House, in a letter to Willis, states that "A good, and modern, postoffice building (for public building) is before the Committee on Public Works, but frankly, it is very doubtful that Congress will authorize and appropriate a sum of money at this time when it is endeavoring to pare expenditures as much as possible."

Walter Myers, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, has written Representative Morton of the effect that while no funds for public buildings are now available, he has been authorized by Congress, the Department has listed Jeffersonton as an eligible project and will give it careful consideration in the distribution of emergency construction funds that may later be made available. Mr. Myers' department has requested that a postoffice inspection of Jeffersonton be made in the future to review the local situation, looking toward recommendations for improved quarters prior to the time when a building program can be set up to provide permanent quarters.

Traveling Artist's Exhibit At Dierurs

Jeffersonton was honored by a visit last week from H. W. Vandewaller, 1436 Rufus, Louisville, talented traveling artist who etches inspiring pictures based on a wood with an electric needle. His work is a true art, lost art these days, but is coming back, and Vandewaller enhances it, gives it new life and finish, and through deftness with his "needle," shows that he is a real artist.

He put the Dierur hardware store's trademark on the company's delivery truck, and after hours spent on the car, Vandewaller left the Dierur store several pieces of art work which he created on plywood. One impressive piece is a rustic scene of a lone horse pulling a team of cars through a mountain pass. Other smaller pieces show development of railroad transportation equipment from its beginning. Born in Holland, and an early admirer of Lincoln, he enjoys delight at being in Lincoln's native State. While making his home in Louisville, he takes trips all over Kentucky, admiring and sketching the scenery. He is a successful inventor, as well as an artist, having a simple system of shating the suns outta his factories.

J'Town Ag. Classes In Rat Extermination

The sophomore agriculture class took their annual field trip to the Plainview Dairy Farms and the Kentucky Acres Farm Tuesday, May 6, as dairyfarming was one of the leading enterprises studied this year in the sophomore class.

The class, in charge of Mr. J. E. Gambill, the agriculture teacher, spent the morning touring Plainview Dairy, observing the fine prize-winning dairy cattle and the various dairy products and equipment. The tour was led by Frank Pouliquin, the farm herdsman, who gave several good pointers on breeding and handling dairy cattle.

The morning tour was completed by a visit to the milk plant where Mr. E. Marshall, plant supervisor, took the students through and showed them how they received, pasteurized, cooled, separated, made cottage cheese, and packed stored milk.

The afternoon was spent visiting the Kentucky Acres Dairy Farm to see the special milking parlor and the elaborate equipment that was used with the milking operation.

The freshman agriculture class took their field trip Friday, May 9, to the Kentucky Acres Farm for a dress rehearsal and the Fischer packing plant to complete their study of swine and poultry, the two leading enterprises studied this year.

Mr. Young, superintendent of Fischer packing plant, took the class through the entire plant and discussed all of the different meat processing units.

Clemens Says State New Industries

Louisville, Ky., May 12—Earl Clements, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, voices a chief point in his campaign, that Kentucky should work to make it increasingly possible for our people to secure cheap electric power. I shall continue to resist further increases in electric rates and power interests to monopolize distribution of electric power, to fasten perpetual franchises, and to arbitrarily fix excessive rates.

Waterfield maintains its pressure to keep water t o w e r which can serve for local water-supply distribution.

City Law Director Gilbert Burnett proposed that cities around Louisville set up and own waterworks, do their own power generation, and sell their own electricity.

He pointed to Anchorage and Jeffersonton as examples, each of which "has its own waterworks and sells its power to Louisville," he said.

Waterfield's plan would mean increased revenue from taxes, which, in turn, would finance better public facilities.

Clements declared that Kentucky needs to establish a state power commission and to have its own electric power system.

He said, "We have to have a state power commission and a state power authority."

He asserted that a well-planned continuous campaign, to draw tourists, should be instituted in the next regular or a special session.

Burnett said that this newest plan is in line with the proposal last week for Louisville to stop giving fire protection beyond the City limits.

The Atherton took under consideration an ordinance submitted by the Metropolitan Sewer District proposing a sewer service charge of approximately 50 per cent on all residential bills.

The Waterworks Board took no action but may consider the matter at the next regular or a special session.

Increased revenue from industry, he asserted, would lift a burden onsewage tax load from the farmer.

He said that a well-planned continuous campaign, to draw tourists, should be instituted in the next regular or a special session.

Burnett said that this newest plan is in line with the proposal last week for Louisville to stop giving fire protection beyond the City limits.

CONTRAST IN SOCIAL DOCTRINE

Occasionally we hear people say that the Communist idea is in accord with the principles of Christianity. Although the concept of Karl Marx, in its application by his devotees, has always been inimical to orthodox Christianity, there are even some church people who have been hoodwinked into believing that there is no conflict.

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, pastor of Marble Collegiate Church, New York City, in discussing Christianity Vs. Socialism has the following to say (we quote from Dr. Peale's manuscript):

"The New Testament of the Word of God, according to共产ism, economic planning and government control. The answer usually given is, 'Perhaps not in actual words, but by the "spirit" of His message, its "ethical implication".' The answer to that is that an 'implication' is a very vague thing and is determined largely by what a previously adopted attitude wishes to read into the actual teachings of Jesus."

"Jesus, as the Scriptures show, recognized private property and fundamentals in position. He accepted the labor-for-different-pay principle, and inequality in ability. It is pretty hard to make a socialist out of Him, except by 'insight' and 'ethical implication.'

"This writer is in hearty accord with the social ideals of Christianity, but repudiates the insistence that socialism and collectivism are the social ideas of Jesus Christ. They may be the sincere ideas of men who happen to be Christians, but they are not the principles of that religious system called Christianity."

"Christianity seeks to develop Christlike men, which means men who love each other regardless of race, color or creed; men who are honest, unselfish and decent. Christianity also develops a strong respect for one's self as a child of God, and inspires men to make the most out of their lives.

"The American way grew out of this attitude, and from it true social progress will evolve."

WHAT'S IN STORE FOR GRADS?

As American youth emerges from another term of academic instruction there starts a train of thought within the older heads that the world is about to end. The young people are subjected to civilization's most elaborate and most complicated educational system of all time. While we congratulate the graduate on being given the best there is to offer in preparation for a life's career, we can but wonder how the world is going to serve him after commencement.

With the man in the street talking about the "next war"; the man in the state house struggling with the problems of foreign policy; representatives of capital and labor trying (vainly) to chart a course of industrial peace and prosperity; the political leaders treading ground cautiously; and the scientist seeking to develop more and mightier forms of destruction, what is in store for the young man and young woman who have been preparing to work and play in a world of peace? They have been thinking about how to live and to make a living. Now they are stepping out of a stage that is being set, seemingly, by their elders for combat of war, which keeps people from living and from making a living.

While wishing for them the best that could be had under a natural and normal condition of human relationship, we would hope that it might be possible for them to take something with them, as a cast of human actors, that will make for a more tranquil course and, possibly, a "happy ending."

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE BALL!

Prohibitionists talk a fast game—but let's keep our eyes on the ball!

When the legal Alcoholic Beverage Industry goes out, so do such important items as tax revenues for state and counties.

If we want adequate old age pensions, school revenues and other benefits, these tax payments have to be made . . . if not by the Industry, perhaps by you.

Licensed Sale is a tax-paying system. Prohibition is a tax-dodging system.

Licensed Sale is good sense and good business. Let's keep Licensed Sale!

Heavy Blow To
Gambling In New Way

A new blow to gambling in Louisville was dealt in Criminal Court Wednesday, when John F. West, alleged book operator, was fined $100 and given 10 days in jail on a charge of maintaining a disorderly house.

It was a new way at getting conviction against book operators. West is shown. Vogt had been arrested three times in nine months; it was reported, at 3429 Terry Boulevard for running a handbook.

Prosecutors grand jury refusing to indict on handbook charges, Commonwealth's Attorney Frank Ropke obtained the disorderly house conviction by a new strategy.

John Mays asked the new grand jury to bring in more indictments, pointing out that property owners, suffering gambling on their premises, could be prosecuted under the new law.

Police raided the American Legion clubrooms in the Seabach Inn, 3000 Seabach Inn, and arrested 14 slot machine operators.

Handbook charges have usually been amended in Police Court, though fines have risen from an old-time $5 to $20 and costs.

Mothers, Living And Dead, Remembered

Millions of mothers, the world over, were remembered in one way or another Sunday, May 11, "Mothers' Day." The white and carnation wreaths everywhere. The living received presents and other considerations; visits to cemeteries, the ten-cent flowers on graves were appropriate actions in memory of those departed.

There were words from the pulpits, homecoming assemblies, visits to schools. Appeals for reference were made by many to Miss Anna M. Jarvis, who founded "Mothers' Day." Suggestion was made that we build a memorial to her. We have done so.

"The Greatest Soldier of Them All."

"We build monuments to generals, admirals, statesmen," it was suggested. Another sentiment was:

"Thank God, who so planned

the universe as to give mothers to men."

Take her to your hearts. Embrace her.

Blessed are the children that can still have the benediction of her fading eyes and the care of her trembling hands.

Towards those departed: "She is not dead. She has simply shed her mortal garments."

"Let me make every day a 'Mothers' Day.'"
